The screenshot shows the IBM Cloud console's "Custom bucket" configuration page. At the top, there's a search bar and navigation links. The main section is titled "Custom bucket" and includes a text input field for the "Unique bucket name" with a placeholder "Enter a unique bucket name". Below this, a "Bucket naming rules" box lists four guidelines: uniqueness across the system, no personal information, alphanumeric start/end, and allowed characters. Under the "Resiliency" section, three options are shown: "Cross Region" (Highest availability), "Regional" (Best performance, selected with a checkmark), and "Single Site" (Data sovereignty). A "Location" dropdown is set to "jp-tok". A blue "Create" button is in the bottom right corner.
